Or carbon monoxide poisoning?

DON'T MISTAKE THE SYMPTOMS FOR A HANGOVER

Gas may not be the first thing you think of when you move into your student home, but you need to be aware that unsafe gas appliances can put you at risk of carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning, gas leaks, fires and explosions.

CO can kill without warning as you cannot see, smell or taste it, so fit an audible CO alarm. If you are suffering with the symptoms of CO poisoning, seek medical help immediately.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS WHEN YOU RENT

It's important you know your gas rights when you rent – they could save your life. By law, your landlord must:

- Arrange for a Gas Safe registered engineer to carry out a gas safety check every 12 months.
- Provide you with a copy of the landlord gas safety record before you move in and within 28 days of the annual check taking place.
- Maintain the gas appliances, pipework and flues in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions.

MAKE SURE THEY'RE LEGAL

By law, anyone who comes to work on gas appliances, pipework and flues must be Gas Safe registered.

Cooperate with your landlord to make sure you allow the engineer access to the property. When they arrive, ask to see their Gas Safe Register ID card. Don't forget to also look on the back of the card, to check that they're qualified for the work that needs doing.
